Personal Injury

How would you value Pain Suffering and Loss of Amenity (PSLA) in a personal injury claim?

SCENARIO: On 7 January 2024, Neil was the driver of a vehicle involved in a road traffic accident. His 5-year-old daughter, Mary (DOB 31/07/2018) was also in the car. Neil was travelling at 50mph, below the speed limit of 60mph.

A car, who we now know was driven by Thomas, pulled out of a side road in front of Neil's vehicle. Neil was unable to stop in time and a collision occurred between the two vehicles.

Neil and Mary suffered serious injuries. Neil is now struggling to work as a plasterer due to his injuries. Mary has suffered a traumatic brain injury.

Who is able to bring forward a claim in this case and what are some of the heads of loss?

What are the limitation dates?

SECTION 5 : Questions

Personal Injury

Neil's solicitor obtains a medical report from a Consultant Orthopaedic Surgeon. Which part of the Civil Procedure Rules deals with expert evidence?

The Consultant Orthopaedic Surgeon states that on the balance of probabilities, Neil may struggle at work but does not satisfy the criteria under the Equality Act to be registered as disabled. What potential claim can Neil bring in relation to this?
